CONFESSION INCREASES WILLIS' MURDER MYSTERY

PEGGY MARSH

Paris, June 7 (U. S.).—Peggy Marsh announced here today her engagement to Thomas B. Wells, a wealthy Minneapolis boy, son of Frederick B. Wells, and a nephew of one of the heads of Harper & Brothers, publishers.

Young Wells has confirmed the engagement. He sails today aboard the George Washington and Peggy will follow him in about a month.

A wedding date has not been settled upon, but both said they did not want a long engagement, and the marriage probably will take place in September in New York.

Wells says he intends to settle in New York, go into business and will not return to Minneapolis.

Peggy said she quit the Music Box because she could not get the part she wanted.

"Anyway I'm through with the stage forever now. A home looks good to me," said Peggy.

Peggy Marsh, a former Chelsea Mass., girl, recently sued the estate of the late Marshall Field of Chicago for $2,000,000, charging that Hendy Field, grandson of Marshall Field was the father of her child. While she did not get anything, $100,000 was awarded to the boy.

Wells is the oldest son of Frederick Brown Wells, a member of one of the oldest and wealthiest families in Minneapolis.

The family fortune was made in lumber and grain. Young Wells was a student at Yale of the class of '25, but left about a year ago.

FIRE SHOTS IN STREET CAR STRIKE

One Man Is Slightly Injured When Guards Draw Guns in Schenectady

Schenectady, N. Y., June 7.—Serious disorders in which shots were fired marked an attempt today of the Schenectady Railway Company, where employes have been on strike four weeks, to bring back to the barns two cars abandoned by their crews.

According to Mayor C. A. Whitmyre and the police, the shooting was done by guards protecting the car crews.

The crowds of spectators and strike sympathizers, authorities said, confined their hostility to jeering the crews and repair men.

After vainly trying to disperse the

GERMANY'S OFFER 285 MILLIONS

Proposes This Payment a Dollars Annually if World Loan Is Unavailable

Berlin, June 7 (AP).—Germany's amendatory reparation note, handed to the entente and United States governments today, proposes annuities estimated to total 1,200,000,000 gold marks, $285,600,000, annually, if an international loan is not available for immediate capital payments.

The annuities would become effective in 1927, and their number and amount would depend wholly on the degree of German's economic recovery.

The memorandum declares an inevitable requisite to a practical solution of the reparations problem is the early convocation of a general conference to which Germany would be admitted on an equal basis.

ERAFFIRMS GOOD-WILL.

The memorandum reaffirms Germany's good will and desire to meet her reparations obligations, and asserts the conviction that the entire problem should be submitted to an impartial inquiry, the verdict of which, it declares, would be accepted by the German government.

As a guarantee for the annuities the German government pledges the Federal Railway System, which would be capitalized at 10,000,000,000 marks ($2,380,000,000), yielding a

LINEMAN SHOCKED TO DEATH AT WORK ON POLE IN ROXBURY

James J. Cavanaugh, thirty-eight years old, an ex-service man, was instantly killed today when 4,600 volts of electricity passed through his body while he was at work on a pole in front of No. 146 Townsend street, Roxbury.

Cavanaugh, who had been married only a year, was lowered to the ground by fellow workmen and rushed to the City Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

According to the police, his left arm came in contact with a live wire, and the entire voltage went through his system. He lived on Conrad street, Dorchester, and was employed as a lineman.

The first Mrs. Ayres filed papers and then declared she had searched city directories from all parts of the country for more than a decade for trace of her missing husband only to learn he had wed a second time.

Ayres, a Boston automobile salesman, today said he had filed suit in Philadelphia in 1912 and had always thought he had obtained an absolute decree. He has engaged Attorney Leon F. Abbott to straighten the tangle.

ATTEMPT TO REFUTE ALIBI

Fail to Confirm Mother's Story That Hill Was in Portland That Day

An alibi set up by Mrs. Harry E. Hill of No. 160 Hillside street, Roxbury, against the confession of her 22-year-old son Thomas at Wilmington, Del., that he was implicated in the holdup and murder of Paymaster George A. Willis of the Boston News Bureau on Kilby street last December 15, was weakened today by information from Portland, Me.

Mrs. Hill declared as offsetting her boy's admissions, that he was shovelling snow and doing other work for the Portland Terminal company last December, that she had letters from him during that month, and that she had a post-card from him, dated at Portland, Decem ber 15—the very day of the Wills murder.

POLICE ATTACK ALIBI OF ROXBURY YOUTH IN PAYMASTER KILLING

MOTHER DECLARES HE WAS AT WORK IN PORTLAND

This post-card, she said, mentioned his work for the Portland Terminal Company, and how hard it was shoveling from 8 a. m. to 6p. m. including Sundays.

But inquiry by the Boston American today, at the offices of the Portland Terminal Company, showed that, while Thomas P. Hill of Boston was employed by them as shoveler from January 24 to February 7, 1923, he was not in the company employ December 15, 1922, nor any part of last December.

FAIL TO SUPPORT CLAIM.

The mother's alibi claim was that her son could not have been connected with the hold-up and murder in Kilby street, Boston, in any possible way because he was in Portland that day, as attested by the post-card date.

The Portland Terminal Company's records fail to support this claim, but that does not prove that Hill was not in Portland last December.

Portland police records show that Thomas Hill of Boston was arrested January 7, 1923, for safe keeping. He was released the next morning.

What ailed this Hill does not appear, but the brief record indicates that the man was ill, intoxicated or otherwise helpless and was taken in custody for his own protection.

WAS A "FLOATER."

While Hill was employed by the Portland Terminal Company from January 24 to February 7 his employment was not continuous, but skipped some days in that interval. In labor parlance the man was a "floater."

Police telegrams flashed between Boston, Portland and Wilmington today in effort to check up on Hill's amazing effort to convict himself with the Wills murder.

Hill, sentenced in Wilmington for a string of burglaries, shouted defiantly that he was wanted in Boston for shooting a paymaster in a Boston holdup last December.

The Boston police received a telegram from Wilmington today notifying them of Hill's confession.

Witnesses to the Kilby street hold-up and murder of Paymaster George A. Wills of the Boston News Bureau Dec. 16—the only Boston hold-up and murder of last December—were called to Court square police station.

READY FOR TRIP.

Sergeant Archie Campbell was ready to start with the witness to Wilmington to see if Hill could be identified as one of the bandits.

FAIL TO IDENTIFY PHOTO.

Two News Bureau witnesses to the killing of Paymaster Wills, failed today to identify a photograph of Thomas Hill, shown them by the Boston American, as either of the bandits.

Henry E. Fogel, one of the witnesses, failed to pick out Hill's picture from a group of miscellaneous photographs. When Hill's picture was indicated to him, he said he could not identify it with the holdup.

John F. Driscoll, a messenger boy, also failed to pick out Hill's picture from a group. When Hill's picture was picked out for him, the boy thought he had seen Hill somewhere before, but not in connection with the holdup.

The bandits have been listed, in police circles as "No. 1 and No. 2."

Descriptions of Thomas Hill by Hillside street neighbors resemble descriptions of the "No. 2 bandit" seen by witnesses to the shooting.

TWO MEN COMPARED.

Meanwhile there is interesting comparison of neighbors' descriptions of Hill and witnesses' descriptions of the "No. 2" bandit in the Kilby street murder. They are:

Neighbors' Witnesses' Descriptions of Thomas Hill:	Descriptions of "No. 2" bandit:
22 years,	19 years,
135-140 lbs.	140 lbs.
5 ft. 9 in.	5 ft. 10-11 in.
Medium complexion,	Lighter complexion than "No. 1" bandit, who had "red face."
Blue-gray eyes.

The situation is complicated, however, by variance between the witnesses' descriptions of both "No. 1" and "No. 2" bandits and the descriptions finally sent out in the official police circulars.

The police circulars described "No. 2" bandit as:

Twenty-four years, 5 feet, 10 inches, 150 pounds, medium build, ruddy complexion, light hair, humped nose.

The witnesses' and police descriptions of "No. 1" bandit showed even more variance. The witnesses pictured "No. 1" bandit as about nineteen years, five feet eight inches tall, 145 pounds weight and red faced.

But the police circulars ticked off "No. 1" bandit as about twenty-eight years, six feet one inch tall, 180 pounds, medium build, medium complexion, brown hair and blue eyes.

SIMILAR TO GRANT.

And this was a close description of Webster U. Grant, the so-called "giant bandit," who was shot to death by State constabulary after a running gun fight and a drug store break in Southboro. Grant was believed by many to have been in the Kilby street paymaster's murder.

The telegram from Wilmington police to Boston headquarters said that Thomas Hill of "16"—which should be "160"—Hillside street, Roxbury, arrested there by railroad police, made a statement after being sentenced in Wilmington court that he was wanted in Boston for shooting of a paymaster who was killed last December after being robbed.

So far as Boston News Bureau record of employes reveals, Thomas Hill was employed there. If he ever were it was merely for a half-day or day, too brief a time to get his name on the permanent roll.

BROTHER WORKED THERE.

But it developed today that his elder brother, Charles E. Hill, now 24 years old, married and living in New Jersey, was a News Bureau messenger for 13 days in the late Summer of 1913, when he was 14 years old.

Charles E. Hill is on the News Bureau records as a messenger employe from Aug. 27 to Sept. 9, 1913. Then he quit to return to school. He was listed as son of Harry L. Hill of Hillside street, Roxbury.

The street number, by the way, was given as "16" instead of "160." This is the same discrepancy in the home address that showed in the police telegram from Wilmington.

The fact that Thomas Hill's elder brother was a News Bureau messenger ten years ago, when Thomas was twelve years old, might indicate that Thomas Hill was familiar with the News Bureau location and even had heard about its paying off methods.

SEVERAL RECORDS.

Grim reminder of the hold-up tragedy was the fact that the time card of Charles Hill's employment was in the handwriting of Willis, the slain paymaster.

Thomas Hill was wayward as a lad. After attending the Jefferson Grammar School he was sent to the Suffolk School for breaking and entering.

June 29, 1917, he was sentenced in Roxbury Court to three months in the House of Correction for theft. Nine months later he was sent to the Massachusetts Reformatory for larceny. He was also put on probation for damaging property.

He was paroled last year from the men's reformatory at Anamosa, Ia., for violating the Federal stolen automobile act. He returned to Boston.

Mrs. Harry E. Hill of No. 160 Hillside street, Roxbury, mother of Hill, rushed to her son's defence today with sobbing declaration that: "It's all a mistake."

ALL A MISTAKE.

"Why, Thomas was in Portland last December," said the mother. "He worked there during the whole of December.

"There is a mistake. My boy was always good to me. He has always been good to me. He has lived at home most of his life. He went to school in Boston. Then he went to work."

IN 4 BURGLARIES.

"You'll not send me to a work house," cried Hill, who had just pleaded guilty to robberies of a railroad station and three stores at Bellevue, Del.

"I'm not going there and do nothing," shouted the defiant youth. "I'm wanted in Boston, I am. I'm wanted for a killing there last December. There's a big reward out, too."

REFUSES DETAILS.

"I'm not goin gto say any more," he replied calmly in response to questions as to whom he killed and what payroll he got.

Hill was then committed to the Newcastle County Workhouse and the court notified the Delaware attorney general's office of Hill's confession.

With Hill when he was arraigned was his sixteen-year-old brother, William, and their brother-in-law, Alfred Whittan. The Hill brothers said they lived at No. 160 Hillside avenue, Roxbury. Whittan, who is twenty-one years old, said his home tive, or to Conductor Cloutier and the other trainmen in the caboose.

When the car finally toppled over it carried six others with it, ripping up the tracks, breaking off telephone poles and wrecking the crossing gates on Weston street. The automatic air brakes stopped the train before the other cars behind reached the broken track.

The cars overturned fell right and left, blocking both tracks. All westbound traffic was suspended, but early morning commuters were allowed to walk around the tracks and take trains for Boston East of the wreck.

The damage to railroad property and goods in the wrecked cars was estimated by railroad officials at $15,000.

The train, thirty-seven cars, was made up at East Deerfield. The cars that left the track were all loaded with heavy building materials and the wrecking train and crew hurriedly sent from the East Somerville yards, labored hard to remove the debris.

Many long distance telephone wires and telegraph wires used in dispatching trains were cut when the poles fell, putting them out of service.

At noon temporary repairs had been made to the tracks and wires and train service was resumed.

STRIKE RIOTS AT SCHENECTADY

crowd by shooting into the air the police shot directly at the rioters. Mounted police and other reinforcements soon afterwards succeeded in restoring order.

The abandoned cars were brought into the carbarns after having been stalled nine hours in the centre of the retail business district. Two hours earlier the company had sent out an automobile equipped with wrecking apparatus and a touring car, filled with strike guards.

The police, summoned from all sections of the city, kept the crowds in check as the work of moving the stalled cars was begun.

Spectators booed and jeered the strikebreakers and the guards, until one of the latter, Edmund Patti, fired two shots into the crowd. Another shot is said to have been fired by another guard.

A bullet from Patti's weapon grazed the leg of a spectator. Patti was arrested on a charge of first degree assault.

The shooting put the crowd in an ugly mood and the car moving operations were abandoned temporarily and the crews and guards returned to the car barns. When the police entered the barns to arrest Patti, they were held in check for a few moments by a crowd of strikebreakers armed with iron bars. Operation of cars was resumed at 8 o'clock when several cars without screens were sent through State street.

HARDING URGES WORLD COURT TO STABILIZE CIVLIZATION

Washington, June 7.—President Harding declared, in a letter made public today, that by accepting membership in the World Court the United States "may make its largest feasible contribution to the stabilization of civilization, while at the same time surrendering nothing of the advantages and independence" now enjoyed by the American people.

The letter was to Bishop Thomas F. Gallor of Tennessee, head of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who had written to assure the President there were many thousands of citizens who deem it a matter of honor that in some way the American nation contribute its influence to rehabilitate the countries of Europe.

Papyrus, Derby Winner The Locusts Are Back Power Wheel Microbes Labor Kills Thought

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

PAPYRUS WON the Derby. That interests most Englishmen intensely. Betting was 100 to 15 against the winner; more than twenty-five million dollars were bet on that one race. What gamblers don't realize is that all their thinking, planning, worrying adds not one dollar to the world's wealth. Human energy and nerves wasted, nothing created. It was the third Derby win in succession for Donoghue, the Lancashire jockey, giving him the right to wear the golden spurs. He's happy.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR locusts appear here and there, and curious creatures they are. The male locust sings, enjoying himself with usual masculine irresponsibility. The female, hard at work, lays her eggs in little holes bored in twigs of trees, causing the foliage to shrivel. When hatched, the grubs fall to the ground, bury themselves, and remain under earth for seventeen years, occasionally changing their skins getting bigger. Then they come up and start all over again.

THAT'S MYSTERIOUS enough to make anybody think for a minute and a half, and what are we but grubs, buried here under the atmosphere of our planet, to remain for seventy years, and then, as we believe and hope, rise, get wings like the locust and enjoy bliss forever?

SCIENTISTS HAVE artificially produced a lightning flash representing ten million horsepower, more than enough, if it could be kept up, to run all the machinery of the United States.

That artificial lightning flash, compared to the roar in the sky that follows an electric "spark" eight or ten miles long, is a child's popgun compared with Germany's "Big Bertha" that sent shells seventy miles into Paris.

THE EARTH is a gigantic driving wheel, generating not millions but trillions of horsepower. We, building our tiny power plants on this big wheel, are like microbes living on the rim of a driving wheel, rigging up windmills to catch the breeze, instead of harnessing the power of the wheel.

THAT TEN MILLION horsepower artificial flash is encouraging. Whatever men can imagine, they can do, and Giuseppe Faccioli, the electrical engineer who produced the big spark, is the forerunner of men who will really harness the earth and put it to work.

P. S.—Don't let that future unlimited supply of heat and power keep you from putting in next Winter's coal supply now.

FORBES, LEARNED writer on finance, says of the twelve-hour working day in steel mills: "America's destinies are unsafe in the hands of the class of citizens thus produced." In one way, not in another.

The best possible way to keep men down, and out of mischief, is to work them hard twelve hours a day. Men thus worked do not make revolutions, or do the thinking. After working in a steel mill twelve hours men can't think. And thinking makes rebellion. Tailors on their benches and shoe makers at their lasts do much thinking. Physical labor doesn't take all their energy.

It was not the overworked French laborer who caused the Revolution. He only howled around the guillotine after it started. Men who never knew hard labor started it, ran it, and eventually brought the French Republic out of it.

"NO CHAIN is stronger than its weakest link." You have heard that solemn remark perhaps. The human is a chain. How weak is the weakest link in civilization? Read the news from South Africa.

Six savages, sentenced to death, burned alive a young man named Manduza, to please the rain goddess. Manduza, son of a chief, was accused of offending the goddess, so they burned him alive. Strange to say, the drought broke and rain fell just after he was burned.

PHONE GIRLS TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE JUNE 19

The New England Council of Telephone Operators' Unions, representing forty-five locals and 12,000 operators in five States, and consisting of eleven members, including Miss Julia O'Connor, has voted that a strike referendum be polled among the operators on June 19.

This action followed a conference of the telephone operators' wage committee with General Manager G. H. Dresser of the Telephone Company in which he rejected their demands for an increased wage scale and a seven-hour day.

CONDITIONS EQUITABLE

In rejecting the demands of the council, General Manager Dresser declared:

"The existing wage schedules were put into effect by agreement with you. It follows that they were considered by both sides as fair under the conditions prevailing in 1920. If so, it would seem that they are certainly equitable under present conditions, which are much more favorable to you than those of 1920.

"Working conditions in our business are clearly not excelled by those in any large industry employing women. In only one of the five States in which we operate does the law limit the daily working period for women to eight hours, but in none of these States do our women have a schedule of more than seven and one-half hours of actual work."

ENTIRE NATION TO JOIN DANCE OF SHRINERS

Washington, June 7.—Another day of crowded activities for the Shrine delegations attending their annual convention here preceded the historical pageant and parade along Pennsylvania avenue tonight as probably the crown event of the conclave.

A concert at American League Park by the massed bands of all temples, led by Noble John Philip Sousa, was one of the feature events on the day's program.

There also were additional air service, cavalry and field artillery stunts on the card for the entertainment of the visitors. Social functions included a dinner to the new imperial potentate, C. V. Dykeman, elevated to that office by the imperial council yesterday. The council was holding its final session today.

The historical pageant along the "Road to Mecca" and through the "Garden of Allah," in front of the White House, tonight is to be followed by the "Dance of the States."

With a section of Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the White House allotted to each of the State delegations, thousands are expected to join in the dance over the mile-long expanse of the avenue. Music from the bands will be broadcast over the entire country.

It is thus designed to have residents of every State join in the dance as signifying a "Nation in Step."

CHILD DANCER TO ENTERTAIN AT CLUB

Miss Mildred Levy, popular child dancer of Dorchester, will entertain at the Dorchester Women's Club tonight with solo dancing and recitations. Little Miss Levy is a child of unusual talent. Her dancing is a delight, and she recites with dramatic power unusual in one so young. A large attendance is assured at the entertainment.

DAUGHTER GONE; STAR BOARDER, TOO

Dudley, June 7.—Edward Mefure of No. 4 West Main street came down to breakfast. No breakfast was ready. He sought his only daughter, 17-year-old Bertha, who has been his housekeeper. No Bertha. He looked for his only boarder, Antonio Magnan. The star boarder was gone. Mefure reported to the police. He wants Bertha back, but not the boarder. Bertha took only the clothes she had on. Magnan is 31, has boarded with Mefure eight months and came from a Maine lumber camp.

TELLEGEN SAYS WIFE KNEW ALL

Declares Miss Farrar Lived With Him After "Affairs" With Other Women

New York, June 7.—Claiming that Geraldine Farrar lived with him after she knew of his alleged love affairs with other women, and, by this co-donment, nullified her legal rights to a divorce, Lou Tellegen revealed phases of his marital state with the opera star that may result in her divorce suit being thrown out of court.

It was said today that Tellegen's statement may bring an investigation of the whole testimony in the case by the Attorney-General of New York.

In an exclusive interview with the American, Mr. Tellegen dealt with Miss Farrar's charges, coupling his name with those of Miss Kathleen Clifford, vaudeville and musical comedy actress, and Lorna Ambler, the Australian actress who played opposite Mr. Tellegen in "Blind Youth." He said:

AFFAIR WITH ACTRESS.

"Miss Farrar knew all about Miss Clifford. According to the divorce laws of the State of New York, when a wife forgives her husband and resumes married relations with him after learning of an alleged incident of matrimonial misconduct, she cannot secure a divorce based on the alleged incident, even if her witnesses swear that it was improper and the court believes them.

"When I returned from the Pacific Coast in 1918, Miss Farrar called to my attention a clipping from the magazine, Musical America, which dealt with an incident in which my name was mentioned at the Hotel St. Francis in San Francisco and in which Miss Clifford's name was featured. I am surprised, therefore, that she put this incident in her complaint.

DEFENDS LORNA AMBLER.

"Owing to the fact that I had instructed my attorney, Arthur A. Schwartz, not to contest the suit, Miss Farrar was not cross-examined before the referee. It is possible that she did not understand the legal significance of her testimony before Referee Thomas H. Mahoney that she had not condoned the alleged incident. For it is a matter of common knowledge that Miss Farrar and I occupied the same apartment some months after the alleged incident with Miss Clifford at the Hotel St. Francis.

"From the information that has come to me about the testimony before the referee compiled my name with Miss Lorna Ambler. I am convinced that the testimony is of the same kind as that which led Miss Farrar's attorneys so hastily to withdraw their allegations concerning Miss Larrimore. The testimony, I am sure, does not convey actual happenings.

BEAUTIFUL SCANDAL.

The article from Munsey's, of July 6, 1918, which Mr. Tellegen said he had discussed with Miss Farrar, was as follows:

"The San Francisco papers are full of a beautiful scandal in the city. And it concerns Lou Tellegen, Geraldine Farrar's husband, and Kathleen Clifford, a vaudeville actress. In brief, the story runs how a party of friends, among others Mr. Tellegen, was entertained by Miss Clifford. The party was hilarious.

"The hotel people remonstrated. When the night watchman, Pat Carney, called, Miss Clifford is said to have pointed a revolver at his head. The reports in the papers are careful to say that Mr. Tellegen had been invited to the actress' apartment and when discovered was fully dressed."

LOU EXONERATED.

Tellegen was exonerated by the house management. According to Ernest Drury, assistant manager of the St. Francis, Tellegen had been invited to the apartments of the actress. Tellegen, said Drury, expressed the opinion that Miss Clifford had planned the scene to profit by some newspaper notoriety.

ACCUSED WOMAN IN COLLAPSE

Mrs. Di Pari Sobs on Stand as She Tells How She Killed Gunman

Worcester, June 7.—Physicians were uncertain today whether Mrs. Annie DiPari would be strong enough to resume the witness stand in Superior Court to describe how she killed Salvatore Martucci, Shrewsbury street gunman, to protect her honor.

Mrs. Di Pari collapsed while telling how the dead man came to her room late at night and forced her to take two of her four small children from her bed chamber a few minutes before she shot him to death.

INVADER DREW GUN.

Speaking in a low voice Mrs. Di Pari, who is now 24, told how Martucci began paying her attention after her husband deserted her in April 1922, leaving her stranded. She told how she had tried to avoid him.

"I was asleep," she said. "A noise awoke me. I looked up and saw Martucci. He pointed a revolver at me.

"He said unless I removed the children from the room he would send a bullet through my heart. I took one baby out and he took the other. The other two were at my mother's."

FEARED FOR HER LIFE.

Overcome by memories of the scene that followed, Mrs. Di Pari burst into tears and began calling "Mamma, Mamma." Efforts to calm her failing, Judge Nelson P. Brown ordered that other witnesses be called to the stand.

Previously she had told how she and her youngsters had slept on the floor for fear Martucci would shoot them through the window while they lay asleep. She asserted he had threatened to kill her on several occasions.

CRISIS IN CHINA AS CABINET RESIGNS

Peking, June 7 (A.P.)—China's troubled government found further perplexity today through the resignation of the cabinet of Premier Chang Shao-Tseng because of the refusal of President Li Yuan Hung to follow the recommendations of his ministers in the appointment of several local officials. Those familiar with the situation believe the national financial problem—a constant annoyance to all recent cabinets—was the real motive, and that the controversy over minor appointments was mere the excuse.

COP WINS RACE FOR ALCOHOL IN RIVER

Lewiston, Me., June 7.—Dola Gannon and Albert St. Piere of Lewiston were captured with a can of alcohol today by the police after a lot of gun play and a race between a row boat manned by a policeman and a bootlegger swimming in the river.

The men were surprised at the end of the railroad bridge, as they came across from Auburn in Patrolman Petropoulos and Crowley, who attempted to stop them at the point of a gun.

They ran back toward Auburn and threw the can into the river. St. Piere reached the Auburn shore and plunged into the river to recover the can. While Petropolis kept a fusillade of bullets playing about St. Piere, Crowley got a boat and rowed after the man.

Gannon and swimmer reached the can at the same time. Crowley not only prevented St. Piere from driving a spike into the can to sink it, but captured both man and can.

SEEK WOMAN ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Lawrence, June 7. — Police are broadcasting the description of a woman who purported to be Inez Penton an attache of the tuberculosis clinic of the Philadelphia General Hospital, and a Philadelphia social worker. It is claimed she passed a forged check on a non-existant bank. She is described as a person of refinement and about forty years of age. She borrowed a small sum from Miss Myra H. Church of the City Mission and later passed a check with Miss Church's signature forged at the Deaconess Hospital in Boston, it is alleged.

DRAG POND FOR BODY OF LAWRENCE MAN

2 FIREMEN INJURED IN LAWRENCE

General Alarm Sounded for Threatening Blaze in the Business District

Lawrence, June 7.—Two firemen were injured and the business district threatened by a general alarm fire today at the Lenox Restaurant.

Captain William Smith of Engine 1, South Lawrence, was pinned under a beam when the roof of the restaurant, at No. 364 Essex street, crashed in on the heads of the men.

Members of his company, plunging through flames, raised the wreckage and rescued him before it fell. His injuries are not believed serious.

Fireman James Hazelhurst of Engine 4 sure a gash in his left hand while climbing the fire escape from the rear wall. Several stitches were required to close the cut.

Several other firemen were badly overcome by smoke.

The cause of the fire has not been determined according to Chief Frank Smith, all investigations.

The damage is estimated at about $2,000, owing to the highly inflammable construction of adjoining buildings and the proximity of the hotel, the chief sounded a general alarm.

The Lenox Cafe adjoins the Pemberton Theatre on each side. The Bristol Hotel is in the next block.

SEEK PURNELL AFTER GIRL TELLS STORY

St. Joseph, Mich., June 7.—The search for "King" Benjamin Purnell is on in earnest.

Armed with a warrant charging the missing House of David leader with a statutory offence against a 15-year-old girl, the sheriff's office raided "Shiloh" Purnell's residence at the Benton Harbor colony, and, failing to find him there, extended the search to other places in and out of the State where it is believed Purnell may have sought refuge.

Gladys Bamford Rubel, former member of the cult and inmate of Shiloh, made the complaint on which the warrant was issued. She charges a series of assaults by Purnell over a period of three years, the first, she says, when she was thirteen years old.

The warrant is the first direct action against the cult leader since the investigation opened here with Judge Harry E. Hagerman of Detroit acting as a one-man Grand Jury.

HEARST SEES MEXICAN BOOM AFTER PACT

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE.

Mexico City, June 7.—After a long conference with the American Commissioners on Recognition for Mexico, William Randolph Hearst, issued the following formal statement of his views:

"When Mr. Charles Warren and Mr. John Barton Payne were appointed as the American Commissioners on American Recognition of Mexico, the Hearst newspapers carried an editorial expressing some misgivings, as to the wisdom of President Harding's selections.

"Since my arrival in Mexico, and after a very interesting discussion with the American Commissioners, I have become convinced that the Hearst papers were entirely wrong in that expression.

"I do not believe that President Harding possibly could have made better selections for commissioners than he has made. I certainly do not know any leading men in the United States who could have conducted the present negotiations with greater ability, with greater judgment, or with greater tact and consideration.

BENEFITS FOR BOTH.

"It seems to me that negotiations are proceeding wonderfully well, and that the results at which the negotiations seem to be arriving will be genuinely for the benefit of Mexico, as well as for the protection of American interests.

"It is, of course, eminently proper that American interests in all lands should be legitimately protected, and Mr. Harding's whole public career has been inspiring in its patriotic position on that point. But apart from this more or less sentimental matter of national care for American citizens and American interests, the conditions of security to investment and confidence of capital, which the joint commission is trying to bring about here in Mexico, are much more important to Mexico than to the United States.

"American capital can certainly be invested in Mexico to great advantage when complete security and complete confidence in that security have once been established, but if the negotiations fail, and American capital does not come to Mexico, it will, of course, go somewhere else and find profitable investment.

"The need for capital in Mexico, however, is vital. There is enormous undeveloped wealth in this country. There is immense opportunity for industrial development. There is abundant labor, abundant power in petroleum and in water power resources. There is a perfect climate, lands as rich as any in the world and water to irrigate them.

"In all this wonderful machine there is one cog missing, and that cog is capital. Provide that cog and the machine will hum with all sorts of wealth-producing activities.

MEANS PROSPERITY.

"The wage of labor is low at present because there is not sufficient demand for labor. But let industries thrive here as they do in the United States and there will be the competition for labor that there is in the United States, with the resultant high wage, and so wealth will be distributed in wages, with the result that all classes of the community will prosper.

"The providing of this one essential cog of capital, therefore, is so important that no small quibbles or technicalities should be allowed to interfere with the creating of conditions which will invite capital and give perfect confidence to capital.

"Therefore, I say that the things which the American commissioners are trying to secure in this conference, the conditions of complete security not only for American capital but for all capital, are really much more important to Mexico than they are to the United States.

The moderation and consideration and judgment with which the American commissioners, and the Mexican commissioners, too, are proceeding, are a source of great gratification to all who are interested in the welfare of the United States and of Mexico, and who are anxious to see the most friendly and mutually beneficial relations existing between the two countries."

The commissioners made material progress at their session Wednesday and it was intimated that conclusions may be expected by the end of the week.

The question still causing a difference is the method of payment for lands expropriated. The American commission is holding out for a payment in cash or equivalent guarantees of security.

BROCKTON SHOE STRIKE BATTLE OF WITS

Brockton, June 7.—The shoe strike in this district has developed into a battle of wits, with the strike leaders scoring in the first test of strategy by winning over nine strike-breakers to their ranks.

When Joseph E. Lacouture and Edward H. Talbot heard reports that the L. G. White Company of Bridgewater were offering lasters $15 a day just to appear at the factory and do no work, they decided on a "plant."

NINE WALK OUT.

They placed two lasters in the White plant. These lasters found nine strike breakers at work, as they reported to headquarters here. They remained in the factory a few hours and when they walked out the nine strike-breaking lasters walked along with them in sympathy with the cause.

The general executive committee has begun a program providing for daily addresses before the various locals of the striking crafts by outside shoe workers' officials and organizers.

Austin E. Gill, secretary of the Haverhill Shoemakers' Protective Union, made the first address of this nature at a big meeting of the lasters.

VISIT NEW BEDFORD.

Delegates from the strikers visited New Bedford, addressing a meeting of textile workers there on invitation.

Manufacturers still claim a constant return of workers, while the strike leaders insist that their movement grows stronger each day.

Strike leaders predict fully 10,000 will attend their mass meeting between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon on O'Donnell Playground.

'DRUNK, IN LINE OF DUTY,' IS POLICEMEN'S DEFENCE

Detroit, June 7.—"Drunk, in the line of duty," is the novel defence counsel are offering for Terence Monaghan, former partrolman, on trial charged with having shot to death Edison Heffron in a near beer saloon New Year's morning.

Attorney Thomas Chawks said Monaghan was a member of the "liquor squad."

"In order to get evidence against the keeper of a 'blind pig' " Chawks said, "it was necessary for him to buy a drink and assure himself it was intoxicating by drinking it. As a result of his devotion to duty he became intoxicated, preceding the alleged murder."

A Clothing Event of Great Importance

WITH the greater part of the season already gone, and the demand only starting for Spring clothes, we announce an offering that will cause nothing short of a sensation in the clothing circles of Boston.

1000 HAND MADE SUITS

$23.50

(At this price in order to make a quick, decisive sale)

NOT one, in our opinion, worth less than $35, with the majority of this great collection of magnificently tailored suits worth fully $37.50 and $40.

It is a well-known fact among the clothing trade in general (but little noted by the clothing buyer) that this has been a persistently backward season for the sale of Spring and Summer suits.

On account of our already big stock we actually hesitated for a time about buying these suits from the manufacturer who offered them to us, even though the price was so low and in face of the fact that we knew them to be of the highest quality and style.

We also hesitated because we feared that our customers might think that these suits at $23.50 merely were $23.50 suits.

THE following facts have overcome our objection to the price, and the suits themselves will overcome yours to a figure so low for quality so high.

1.—Made of imported fabrics and of finest American cloths from the looms of this country's most famous mills.

2.—Each suit is tailored to perfection.

3.—Many are silk lined, many have deep French facings with the seams piped with silk.

4.—All of the patterns reflect good taste—there are stripes, inconspicuous novelty weaves, plain colors, small checks.

5.—We think so much of these suits that we have entirely cleared out half of our windows and have filled them with a special display. To look at them will be to buy them.

6.—GEORGES assures men and young men that they can purchase them with every confidence and in the full knowledge that they are $35, $37.50 and $40 suits which we will sell at $23.50. All sizes—regulars, shorts, stouts and longs.

We consider this positively the greatest offer we ever made in our 44 years in business—and we have some big value-giving achievements to our credit!

TEN RECORDS MADE BY U. S. FLIERS

San Diego, Cal., June 7.—With ten world records safely recorded as the result of the work done by the American naval fliers here, members of the aircraft squadrons of the battle fleet today were ready to go after more seaplane marks.

The flights set for the naval airmen today consisted of speed contests over a three-kilometer course, and altitude flights with specified loads in the heavy seaplanes.

Lieutenant M. A. Schur broke the duration record and smashed the distance record. Lieutenant Schur remained aloft in his torpedo plane for 10 hours, 31 minutes and 11 seconds. Schur's distance was 739.09 miles.

Records established in events not hitherto contested were:

Speed for 1,000 kilometers in torpedo plane: Lieutenant Schur elapsed flying time, 8 hours, 51 minutes, 22 seconds; speed 70.2 miles an hour.

Duration and distance for plane carrying 1,000 kilograms dead weight: Lieutenant Robert Fuller, elapsed flying time 2 hours 45 minutes 9 seconds, distance 201½ miles.

Duration and distance for plane carrying 500 kilograms dead weight: Lieutenant H. E. Halland, elapsed flying time 7 hours 35 minutes 54 3-5 seconds, distance 466.02 miles.

Speed for 500 kilometers, Lieut. Earl Brix, elapsed flying time 3 hours 57 minutes 48 2-5 seconds, speed 78.3 miles an hour.

Derivation and distance for plane carrying 250 kilograms dead weight: Lieutenant Henry Stanley, elapsed flying time QP, hours 6 minutes 53 seconds, distance 573¾ miles. Lieutenant Fuller's torpedo plane carried about 2,200 pounds dead weight.

SAW CHICAGO STUDENT SLAIN, WITNESS SAYS

Chicago, June 7.—A youth resembling Leighton Mount, Northwestern University freshman, was killed by three others and his body placed under a pier in Evanston on September 22, 1921. This declaration was made by John Strom, an Evanston fisherman, who declared he witnessed the killing and the hiding of the body.

Strom said he was fishing from a small boat when he heard "the boys shouting and laughing on the beach and went to see what it was about. They told him, he said, that they had a boy imprisoned in a chicken house, whom they said they were going to make eat sand 'for his health.'"

The boy was produced, he said, and while they sat on him, one of the three boys poured sand down his mouth. The victim stopped struggling and lay still. Alarmed, the tallest of the three cried, "My God, he's croaked."

Girl Sues Estate of Dead Bachelor for Breach of Promise

Salem, June 7.—Miss Mary F. Gallivan, of Danversport, has brought suit for the estate of the late Augustus F. Meade, charging that her late neighbor gave her a note in consideration of a promise to marry. The note, which was for $10,000, was dated forty years ago.

Miss Gallivan asserted that she and Meade, who was a bachelor, had kept company for many years. Meade, according to Miss Gallivan, also promised to remember her in his will, but he failed to do so.

MAINE KU KLUX PLANS PARADE IN HOODS

Portland, Me., June 7.—A parade of from 3,000 to 4,000 members of the Ku Klux Klan, attired in their hoods and robes, and led by a horseman bearing the fiery cross of the order, will be held here in July.

This was announced by Kleagle F. Eugene Farnsworth, who declared the purpose of the demonstration would be to display the strength of the Klan in Maine. Following the parade, Farnsworth also announced 2,000 candidates will be initiated on the Hollins Estate, recently purchased by the order.

The extent of the demonstration, Farnsworth said, would depend on whether Mayor Carrol B. Chapman would grant a permit. It is believed the Mayor will forbid the parading of the Klansmen in their regalia, as he did during the recent meetings in the City Hall.

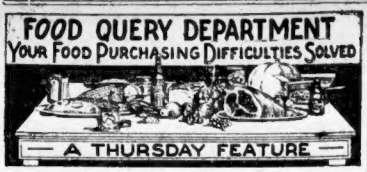
FOOD QUERY DEPARTMENT
YOUR FOOD PURCHASING DIFFICULTIES SOLVED



— A THURSDAY FEATURE —

Are you at a loss as to where you can secure some particular brand or kind of foodstuffs? If so, write the Boston American Food Query Editor. We will answer your inquiry in these columns as quickly as possible.

Food Query Editor:

I am anxious to know where I can buy a certain brand of corn and peas. As I am not sure of the brand, I will try to describe the label to the best of my ability and trust that you can help me out. The label was blue and yellow, mostly blue, and as I remember it, there was a picture of a boy playing a flute. The brand might have been Peter-Piper. This brand of goods is very reasonable and good. Trusting you will be able to fathom my description, with many thanks, I remain, R. S. M.

Dorchester, Mass.

We do not know of a Peter-Piper brand of goods, but from your description of label we feel quite sure you are looking for a brand known as Peter Pan. This brand of peas and corn can be obtained at any of the Arthur E. Dorr stores, E. E. Gray's stores or the Upham's Corner Market.

Food Query Editor:

I understand they are now selling a wonderful pecan nut put up in a glass jar, also in a tin. Have heard these are half pecans and that they are very nice and dry. The trouble I have always had in the past, especially in the summer time, is the way pecan meats turn soft and lose their flavor. Now if you know of any brand of shelled pecans put up in the manner I have described above, would appreciate knowing where they can be had in Boston. Thanking you, I am. L. F. F.

Newton Center, Mass.

You can secure Frazier's shelled pecans, put up in glass tumblers or in 8 oz. sealed tins, at any of the S. S. Pierce or Cobb, Bates & Yerxa stores. I understand these people guarantee their goods to be perfectly dry and fresh.

Food Query Editor:

I am very anxious to know just what is the difference between a Boston blue fish and a pollock. We have had quite a few arguments about this, and I would like to have this question settled once for all. A. J. K.

There is no difference between a Boston blue fish and a pollock except in the name. But we understand there is a recent ruling from the State Board of Fisheries that a fish dealer cannot advertise or sell pollock as Boston blue fish, as they have done in the past. This particular species of fish must be sold as a pollock.

Food Query Editor:

The other day, when I was in the market district, I purchased a large jar of Dorxco Mayonnaise at the Arthur E. Dorr Co. store. I must say it is a very delicious salad dressing. However, it is not convenient for me to go to one of the Dorr stores when I am out of mayonnaise, so I would like to know if this brand can be purchased in any store other than the Arthur E. Dorr chain. J. F. O.

Somerville.

We have interviewed the Arthur E. Dorr people, manufacturers of this Dorxco mayonnaise, and they tell us that on account of the large sale on this item they have decided to sell this dressing to retail stores, jobbers, etc. If, however, your neighborhood butcher or grocer does not happen to have the goods on hand he can stock same from Arthur E. Dorr Co.

Food Query Editor:

I would like to know which you consider the better, a regular ham or a skinned hacked ham, as they call it. I have noticed when going into a store and asking for a small fancy ham they give me a regular, but if I wanted a slice or two of a large ham, as a rule they gave me a skinned ham. Another thing, there seems to be a big difference in the price. They claim that both grades of ham are put up by the same people. Of course I realize that some of the fat is taken off the skinned ham, but there must be a bigger difference than this, and I am curious to know. Thanking you in advance. A. N.

Fenway, Boston.

A skinned hock ham originally was a ham that had a bruise on the back of it or on the rind, and instead of cutting out this bruise the packers took off the entire rind and some of the fat and called it a skinned hock ham. During the last few years, especially here in New England, the public has demanded to a great extent skinned ham, because it is leaner than a regular ham, and a few of the packers are turning out a very fancy ham and taking off part of the rind and fat, but as a rule a skinned hock ham is a large, fat ham with part of the rind and a lot of the fat removed, and they are not nearly as well cured as the regular. Most of the packers use regular hams for their very best because they realize that a ham should have a good amount of fat to be really tender and juicy, and the skinned ham is only made to satisfy the public wants for a lean ham. There is generally a difference of 3c a pound more for the regular ham than for the skinned.

BRUNETTES 'WIN' AT FORDHAM

New York, June 7.—Not to be outdone by Thomas A. Edison, the senior class of Fordham University took serious notice of a questionnaire which ranged in subject all the way from the most popular man in public life to the most popular type of girl.

The seniors voted strong for a brunette as the most fascinating girl type. "Fickleness" they declared to be the most distasteful characteristic in a girl and "loyalty" the most commendable.

A man, the erudite seniors held, should marry at twenty-five and a girl at twenty. The "most appropriate profession for a woman" was declared to be her home. "A good student" was voted the most useful man to a college and a "parlor athlete" the "most useless."

DRUG SUSPECT IS CAUGHT AFTER CHASE

BASES BONUS BILL ON LEGAL OBLIGATION

Washington, June 7 (I. N. S.).—Predicting enactment of the $1,200,000,000 adjusted compensation bill by the next Congress, Senator Hollis (R., Republican, New Mexico), chairman of the Senate Pension Committee, today announced that the bonus fight in behalf of America's 4,000,000 world war veterans would be urged from a new angle—that of legality.

The government, Bursum said, had contracted a "legal obligation" by forcing its soldiers to pay their own insurance, and in requiring forced allotments during the war. He cited state compensation acts, affecting peace time employment, to emphasize the government's obligation.

Furthermore, Bursum declared, the bonus bill when passed will be signed by President Harding. If not, he said there are enough votes to pass it over his veto.

The bill will pay a minimum of $30 a month to the veterans, through the following principal provisions:

Refunding of all insurance payments, averaging $7 a month per man.

Repayment of all enforced allotments, ranging from $5 to $15 a month, and

Payment of a "retroactive" wage increase of $20 a month for service during the war equal to the increase given civilian employes during the war.

MRS. RUETER DEFIES KIN TO WED 3D TIME

Mrs. Margaret O'Malley Ruster of Brighton, widow of Frederick Theodore Ruster, millionaire brewer, defied the reported objections of her relatives and became a bride for the third time she married August Clarence Flanigan, a Brooklyn lawyer, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

According to friends, Mrs. Ruster, twice a widow, met Flanagan, who is a former member of the New York Legislature, in Boston three months ago and the couple fell in love "at first sight."

The wedding took place Tuesday in a room at the Hotel Bossert, the ceremony being performed by Justice Stephen Callahan of the New York Supreme Court. The bride was attended by Miss Marion Saunders of Boston, who first introduced the couple. She had accompanied Mrs. Ruster to Brooklyn.

The couple will live in Brooklyn and Mrs. Ruster will give up her mansion at No. 86 Chestnut road, Brighton, which was left to her by her second husband, Mr. Ruster.

It was reported that her daughter by her first marriage, Mrs. Claude Mahan of Springfield, has been opposed to the affair from the beginning. Mrs. Patrick O'Malley of Clifton, the bride's mother, is also said to have objected to the union.

LIGHTNING KILLS COWS, STUNS THREE, SETS FIRES

Lightning did damage over a wide area south of Boston. Twenty-one cows, two horses and a bull were killed in the barn of Homan Comey in Foxboro. Three persons were stunned and five horses were struck by lightning in Randolph. The old Briggs home, a landmark of Norwell, was burned to the ground, with a loss of $10,000. The home of J. P. Harriman at Nantasket was struck. The Quincy fire alarm system was put out of commission by a bolt.

SLAYER OF 33 BOASTS OF HIS ACTS IN COURT

Moscow, June 7 (AP).—Vasili Komaroff, accused of the murder of thirty-three persons, was alternately a tearful and boastful figure when placed on trial before a crowd that jammed the polytechnic museum and overflowed into the street, where troops were stationed to keep back the thousands of curious citizens.

"You have my confession, why bother further?" he asked, but with the Russian's usual sense of the dramatic court officials, the crowd and the prisoner alike settled down to witness the show.

Komaroff cried in telling the story of his early life. He grinned boastfully when he told of his later life of carousing. He wondered why he had killed so many people. He declared his wife had had nothing to do with the murders.

Alienists testified the defendant was sane. A verdict is expected shortly.

Komaroff is not subject to the death penalty under Soviet laws, as he did not commit robberies attended by violence.

Squeezed by Orang

MRS. MARTIN JOHNSON.

New York, June 7.—Mrs. Martin Johnson, big game hunter and explorer, recently returned from spending two years in Darkest Africa with her husband, where she was charged by lions and faced death in a dozen different forms without getting as much as a scratch.

With her husband she went to the Central Park Zoo and there saw Bessie, an orang-utan they had brought from Borneo. Some one suggested a picture, so Mrs. Johnson sat down on a railing alongside Bessie. The orang-utan grabbed Mrs. Johnson by the neck. In a trice the two were lying on the floor of the cage. Keepers pulled Bessie off. Mrs. Johnson escaped with bruises.

3 MEET DEATH IN DROWNING ACCIDENTS

John D. Kiley, nineteen years old, No. 22 Ryan street, South End, was drowned in the Charles River, near the Cottage Farm bridge. He is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kiley to have met a tragic death in the last three years.

His eight-year-old brother was killed in a South End automobile accident recently.

Kiley, he went swimming with a chum. Kiley dived into the river, and did not rise to the surface. His clothes were found on the river bank. The river is being dragged for Kiley's body.

The body of a small boy, found in the Chelsea Creek near the East Boston end of the Meridian st. bridge was positively identified as that of Joseph Manning, Jr., five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Manning, No. 71 Maverick street, East Boston.

The lad had been missing since May 19. Rumors that he was being held and mistreated by strangers reached the parents. Although grieved at his death, the boy's family was relieved to learn he had not been subjected to cruel or abusive treatment.

William Burke, twelve years old, Trapello road, Waltham, was drowned in Totten's Pond. He is the first Waltham boy to have been drowned during the present swimming season.

DIAMOND GUILTY IN MURDER OF RICH WIFE

Valparaiso, Md., June 7.—Harry Diamond of this city was convicted of his wife's murder, and sentenced to death by a jury that heard the case.

Diamond was charged with having shot and killed his wife while on an automobile trip from Gary to East Chicago. The State contended that the defendant's desire to obtain his wife's money motivated the slaying. Mrs. Diamond, who was several years the husband's senior, was reputed to be wealthy.

Diamond claimed William Armstrong, their chauffeur, killed Mrs. Diamond and that he shot the negro in self-defense.

Mrs. Diamond was said to have had a flock for $17,000 and jewels valued at about $25,000 in her possession when the shooting occurred.

NEED KING SOLOMON AGAIN; TWO WOMEN CLAIM CHILD

Chicago, June 7.—A parallel to the case which King Solomon was called upon to decide faces a Chicago judge today. Two women here say they gave birth to the same child.

A girl five years old, whom both call Leona, is being closely guarded at the home of Mrs. Nicholas Lenz, wife of a druggist. Mrs. Lenz says she can furnish proof that the girl was born to her in Chicago.

Mrs. Julia Warzna says she has a birth record certifying Leona was born to her in Poland, and that she then gave her to Mrs. Lenz three months ago to keep for her during a period when she was in financial difficulties.

GERMANS OFFER 285 MILLIONS

annual bonded interest of 2,000,000,000 marks, or $110,000,000.

PLANS BI GMORTGAGE.

A further 10,000,000,000 marks would be guaranteed by a gold five per cent. mortgage on security for which would be furnished in physical holdings of industry, agriculture and shipping, and the gold obligations assumed by banking and commercial interests and private real estate. This levy, it isestimated, would also yield 600,000,000 gold marks.

Theadditional 200,000,000 of the annuity total would be raised by increased customs duties on articles of luxury and the creation of a government monopoly in tobacco and spirits.

TEXT OF NOTE.

The text of the note says:

"After full and careful consideration, Germany has stated her sincere belief as to her capacity to make payment for reparation. The German government would not be acting fairly and it would not bring the real solution any nearer if, for the sake of temporary alleviation of its political difficulties, it were to promise more than in its judgment the Gearman people can, with the utmost effort, perform.

"Nevertheless, the question of German's capacity is one of facts on which different opinions can be held, and the German government admits the difficulty of arriving at any secure estimate in the present conditions. For this reason it has already offered to accept the decision of an impartial international body as to the amount and method of payment. Germany can give no stronger proof than this of her determination to discharge reparation.

OFFERS ALL RECORDS.

"The German government also is ready to supply all available information necessary in forming a reliable judgment on Germany's capacity to pay. It will, if it is wished, throw open to inspection all its financial records and furnish any details that may be desired concerning the resources of German industry and business.

"The German government has made reference to the floation of big loans in order that large capital sums might accrue at the earliest possible moment to those powers to which reparation is due. Should loans on a great scale prove impracticable for a time, it is ready to substitute a scheme of annuities.

Two Krupp Plants Seized by French

Coblenz, June 7.—The metallurgical establishments of the Krupps at Nieuwied and Engers have been occupied by the military and will be retained as a pledge for the payment of 20 billion marks, representing the amount of the coal tax owed to the Ruhr allies by the Krupp company.

Belgians Raise Billions by Reconstruction Loan

Brussels, June 7.—Subscriptions to the last Belgian "billion franc" loan for the reconstruction of the regions devastated in the war have reached a total of twenty billions, about $4,000,000. Most of the large subscriptions have come from a consortium of banks.

APPEAL TO POPE FOR SCHLAGETER FAILED

Berlin, June 7 (I.N.S.).—An ineffectual effort was made to have Pope Pius XI. Intercede in behalf of Albert Schlageter, a German, recently executed by a French firing squad at Dusseldorf, after being found guilty of sabotage. Monsignor H. J. Bruning, domestic prelate, who accompanied Papal Nuncio Testa to the Ruhr, made the appeal in the Vatican by telegraph. Monsignor Bruning was formerly stationed at New York, Chicago and St. Paul.

Lift Out Your Corns

ICE-MINT

THE NEW DISCOVERY ENDS ALL

Foot Troubles

This new discovery, made from a Japanese product, is certainly a wonder the way it draws out inflammation from a pain of swollen, burning, aching feet. It takes the soreness right out, then the corn or callous shrivels and lifts off.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful. Just think! Not one bit of pain while applying Ice-mint or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

You will never have to cut a corn again and run the risk of blood poison. Say good-by to your old corn salve, plasters and bandling lore for that pet corn of yours is sure to be a "goner" if it ever feels the magic touch of Ice-mint.

It imparts such a delightful, soothing, cooling feeling to the feet that you will smile with relief.

Ice-mint is the real Japanese secret for fine, healthy little feet. It prevents foot odors and keeps them sweet and comfortable. It is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes, and by men who have to stand on their feet all day.

Just ask in any drug store for a little Ice-mint and give your poor, suffering, tired, swollen feet the treat of their lives. It costs little and there is nothing better.

Weds June 21

MISS LOUISE HOWE.

A romance which began two years ago in a Boston art school has resulted in the engagement of Miss Louise Howe, an illustrator, of No. 208 Edge Hill road, East Milton, to Raymond A. Ewing, also an illustrator, of No. 99 St. Botolph street, Northampton. The wedding will take place June 21, in the home of Mrs. Emma Hardy, an aunt of the bride-to-be, in East Milton. Following the ceremony, the couple will join the Summer artists' colony at Rockport.

WIFE NO. 1 SUES FOR DIVORCE

phia, I did. The offer was refused so I started divorce action.

"An attorney was sent to New York to serve papers on her. Then my lawyer said I would not have to appear in court as apparently the case was not going to be contested. I went on to New York and went to work there. I was informed my divorce had been granted without question.

"So when I desired to wed the present Mrs. Ayers I did not see any reason why I should not. We were married in Connecticut. I did not tell her of my previous marriage because she was soo trongly opposed to divorce.

INTENDS TO REWED.

"In 1916 I came to Boston. We stayed one or two nights in a hotel and then moved to an Allston house where I lived until we got an apartment at No. 1139 Commonwealth avenue.

"We lived there until last May, when we moved to Wollaston. That wouldn ndicate I had nothing to hide and was not making any effort to keep anything secret.

"Three weeks ago a New York detective came to me and said, 'I want you. Your wife wants a divorce' I was shocked. I still believe that I got a divorce in Philadelphia. I have started an investigation both there and here to clear up this unfortunate tangle.

"My wife is standing by me. Just as soon as I was informed that there was some question as to the legality of our marriage I moved out of our house. When this mess is over I am going to re-marry the present Mrs. Ayers again so there can never be any question."

MET BY ACCIDENT.

"As far as my first wife saying that she had searched for me for eleven years—well, that is foolishness. I bumped into her face to face in Grand Central station, New York. We both looked at each other.

"She did not speak so I did not speak either. If she had wanted to find me so bad why didn't she grab me then.

"My own brother told me about my having obtained the divorce. He lives in Philadelphia. As the information came to me from him I never thought to question it. That is why I haven't any papers and why I never bothered to get them."

Mason, a fisherman, of Wakefield, was given two and a half years' imprisonment. The second man tried was found not guilty. Another man is to be tried in the case.

INSURANCE FAKE CHARGED IN FUR 'THEFT'

An alleged plot to defraud an insurance company of $50,000 by the report of a bogus robbery, was revealed in the arrest of Louis Blackstone of Fenno Terrace, Brookline, proprietor of a fur store at No. 130 Boylston street, and Joseph Rosenthal, of Harvard street, Brookline, on secret indictment warrants.

Blackstone, with Rosenthal and others, is alleged to have conspired last November to have his establishment broken into and robbed of furs.

A robbery at the Boylston street store was reported in January.

The break, it is said, was effected by breaking through a wall between the Blackstone store and an adjoining establishment. Furs valued at $20,000 were taken. Blackstone, it is alleged, reported the robbery to the police and then attempted to collect insurance for the supposed stolen goods from the Continental Casualty Company.

Officials of the latter company became suspicious and informed the police. The latter began an investigation and secured evidence which they placed before the Grand Jury. The indictments of Blackstone and Rosenthal followed.

BAIL OF $25,000.

The men were arrested by Inspectors Flaherty and Finn of police headquarters. Both were charged with conspiracy to steal furs and Blackstone was also charged with attempted larceny of $20,000. Blackstone is at the City Prison for lack of bail, which was fixed at $25,000 by Assistant District Attorney Cato.

BARBOT SUSPENDS U. S. "FLIVVER" TRIPS

Paulsboro, N. J., June 7.—Georges Barbot, French pilot of the "Flivver" airplane, announced today he had temporarily abandoned flights in this country. Although his machine suffered little damage when it plunged into a tree near here on an attempted flight from Garden City, L. I., to Washington, D. C., curio seekers cut the wings and took parts of the motor. When Barbot learned this, there were tears in his eyes. His intention is to go back to France and bring over a similar machine.

BIRTH RATE OFF IN 24 STATES

Washington, June 7—A decline in the birth rate and a slight increase in the death rate in 1922 was shown in provisional census bureau figures for the year announced today by the Department of Commerce.

For the twenty-four States reporting birth figures, the rate for 1922 was 22.7 for each 1,000 of population, against a rate of 24.4 for 1921. For thirty-three States the death rate last year was 11.9 against 11.6 for 1921.

GIRL DEFIES HER FATHER; WEDS IN SECRET

A telegram informed James Cavanaugh of Dorchester, an official of the United Shoe Machinery Company, that his daughter, Mary, twenty-two years old, and Roger Blase Di Pesa, twenty-four years old, of Brookline, were secretly married.

Cavanaugh, it is said, had been aware that Di Pesa and his daughter were keeping company for some time, but had objected to the marriage. The young couple had the five-day law waited and went to the rectory of St. Leo's Church, Dorchester, where they were married by Rev. Fr. Cunningham. A reception and breakfast with several intimate friends at the Copley Plaza followed.

The bride, prominent socially in Dorchester and treasurer of the St. Cecilia's Guild, was attended by Miss Alice Whelan of Dorchester. Henry Dobbins, of No. 338 Commonwealth avenue, served as best man.

Di Pesa is a cousin of Joseph Di Pesa, a Boston theatrical press agent.

After the reception the young couple sent a telegram announcing the wedding to the bride's parents, and then left on a wedding trip to New York.

Platinum Wedding Rings Popular With 1923 Brides

Only three out of every 100 girls choose gold wedding rings this year, according to the leading jewelers. The other ninety-seven choose platinum and they want them very narrow.

The men who wear wedding rings are still in the minority, but those who do always choose gold, whether their bride-to-be wears platinum or not.

ENGLISH POET CALLS DRY U. S. 'DARNED FOOL'

By SIR WILLIAM WATSON

Westmoreland, England, June 7 (U.N.S.)—We have before us the spectacle of a great nation positively flaunting its aridity. It will, however, sooner or later pass away like other freaks and fashions, for no great nation makes a "darned fool" of itself forever.

England made a "darned fool" of itself in the days of fanatical Puritanism. But good sense and the spirit of humor returned. Nature at last reasserted herself and we were saved by the return to laughter. Fifty or sixty years ago America had the same saving spirit of humor.

But what of his (the American man's) country women? For it clearly asserted that they, rather than their sons and husbands, are the authors of prohibition.

I possess a dictionary in eight volumes, but research therein failed to reveal the word gynocratry, so I conclude it does not exist. But the thing itself—namely, the worship of women—does exist in America to an extent which the untraveled British has no conception of.

And though my dictionary fails me as to such a word as gynocratry, it does give the word gynocracy—government by women—and according to some observers this form of government has been long established in the United States.

(Aids to Beauty)

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. This treatment will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

A New Standard of Mileage
Proved by Thousands of Motorists and Further Proved by Tommy Milton at Indianapolis

Tommy Milton brought the new standard of tire construction forcibly to the attention of American motorists when he flashed across the line at Indianapolis winner in a race that proved to be one of the most extreme tire tests on record. The first four to finish and eight of ten "in the money" were Firestone equipped. Not once—in the entire 500 mile grind—was there a tire failure on any car equipped with Firestone Tires.

"Gum-Dipping did it"—is the car-owner's explanation of this tire triumph which gives emphasis to a series of mileage performances unparalleled in motoring history.

For years vulcanizers who know tires best have claimed that Firestone Cords were the sturdiest built, had the strongest carcass, and were the hardest to tear down of any tire they knew.

The marked superiority of Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords has been still more clearly and definitely established during the first six months of 1923.

Firestone has set a new standard—car-owners have proved it. As a result, three Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are sold today to every one a year ago.

If you are not now using Firestone Cords, test one—or a set—under the most difficult driving conditions you know. Let the mileage results decide your future buying.

THE WAYS OF A HUSBAND—By ANN LISLE

A Splendid Sequel to the Famous Story of Wedded Life, "When a Girl Marries"

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Jim and Anne find happiness again on a honeymoon spent in the apartment of Betty Winston, loaned for the occasion. They go to Dreamwold for a Sunday dinner with Jeanie and are met in the grounds by Rosa, who ignores Anne. Rosa advises the discharge of Mabel Storrs to save the big salary. This Anne resents. Evvy helps Anne arrange her apartments and a dinner is given as a housewarming. Phoebe grows hysterical on receipt of Carlotta's wedding invitation. Carlotta asks for a tete-a-tete with Anne, and Jim stays in the room.

By Ann Lisle

"ROSA'S handing it to you, Little Princess," said Jim with elaborate gallantry. "I have to confess that I never heard little Lady Geraldine's name added to any other woman's superior charm."

It is not often I have to," smiled Rosa, so suavely that I couldn't quite fathom the effect she was trying to produce. Then she added, "And now my Maria have pulled the curtain to my little sliding dining room, so we shall eat if please we."

Her dinner and wonderful meal Rosa's fat Maria had prepared the sweetness of the hostess began to pall before I quite myself as I might. I felt Rosa was too good to be true. When we had arrived at the comfortable state where Jim and I, as were smoking together while I nibbled peppermints our hostess made a sudden suggestion.

"I should like to see the studio of my famous neighbor," Jaimie prattled, you know her well enough to take me there even if she have visitors?"

Jim fidgeted with his cigar for a moment.

"You mean Miss Gregory?" he asked. "I suppose I could—"

"Who then?" cried Rosa.

As her voice met mine they were warm and sweet. She leaned on the arm of Jim's chair with a fleecy little pull-tant air.

"Why shouldn't your wife and your—your best friend see the great artist at work? She should I, old man? A beautiful woman as I am had several times as much room for me."

"Dad's old. Mona's one of our kind. She's modern as hell."

"Dad must have got that. I haven't slowed him up much yet. He was the life of the party."

"Oh, Dad's all right. I'm for him myself. But he's no fun for Pat. There might be fireworks if he knew she was staying in this early."

"I see what you mean about Mona."

"Mona what?"

"Well, Sid Farrow. And then Mr. Arden."

"Sounds like a row with his little mistress and Mona. If you ever get that, there's no need to say anything about it, Chris."

"Yes. So you'd be a ghost at the party?"

"Pass me a cigarette, please. I'll try and put on the brakes."

"I've had three. Heaven knows, that's two too many."

"Me! I should say not. I'm a Mona."

"Don't you mean a Mona Lisa?" Connie corrected.

"Oh, that's right. Well, I'm not going to get on your nerves, Connie. I'll be quiet as a mouse. Only I'm not going to be left out of things. I'm not going to be a wet blanket. Phoby Diggins says if she ever gits her a husband who hits he won't be hangin' 'round down to the store all the time. Phoby always did make a lot of idle threats.

Purty birds don't need no 'larm clocks.

Crowd of fellers down to the store jest eats 'round an' lam basses everybody in the place. But most of 'em don't dare to say nothin' when they git home.

After all, you'll generally find that a hick town is a pritty nice town.

Feller in a green car stopped here t'other day an' wanted to sell me some oil stock. I directed him right over to Deke Sorgens. Deke wouldn't give up five cents for the Washington Monument.

Tramps has got thawed out an' is movin' north. Yes, sir, in the direction away from work. Wish I could hitch 'em to one of my farm jobs.

Hank Hawkins got stuck for a bought auto a year ago last April. He's got it at the box Hank ko. tons up for speeds over to five miles. Hank always did have hum long nose keepin' powers, but a stiff when he goes fastin.

GOAT GRABBERS

After searching for an available telephone booth all over the neighborhood for twenty minutes, to find it marked "temporarily out of order."

The taxi driver who, on a down pour first ask, "Say, where you're going?" and then says he can't take you back, as the haul is too short.

The wife who lie to over-hear'g you in front of a company of the men she could have married.

The vaudeville actor who, after he pulls a joke and doesn't get a laugh, says to his partner, sufficiently so all can hear, "Give them this, they'll get it!"

The fellow who, not knowing a single girl to stage personally, condemns them all.

The nervy guy who pays back a debt of several months' standing and then gets peeved when you turn him down on a loan twice as large the next day.

The lucky card player who goes into a pot with a pair of fours against your three kings and who, despite several raises, sticks along to buy a full house on the draw.

SHEVLIN'S CONQUEROR WANTS WALKER BOUT

Jimmy Jones

By NICK STAMBAUGH

(Manager of Jimmy Jones

Jimmy Jones got his start as a boxer while serving the United States in the world's war, being a member of the 332d Division. He served his time in France and Italy and during this time he became champion of the 332d Division.

After his discharge he returned to the United States and instead of going back into the coal mines, where he formerly worked as a coal miner, he started into boxing in the preliminaries and he improved so fast that he became a main bout fighter in his second year of boxing.

A willing worker and a good living boy, he was an ardent student in the gymnasium, with the result that he became a very clever boxer. He drew the attentions of the promoters and was given plenty of work. Always trying hard to please the fans who paid to see him work, Jones enjoys hard work and for that reason he works every minute he is in the ring.

He met and defeated every man that thought he was a contender for British crown such men as Jack Perry, Phil Dixon, K. O. Longhlin, Josh Tulman, Barney Adair, Soldier Bartfield, Pickle Schnell and Dave Shade, and he did this all in eight months time which goes to show he is one of the best in his class.

Jones knows that Eddie Shevlin is a good boy but Jones also knows that he is not a heat him again as he did in the bunch and there are [illegible] going all the way to beat Jones see the Jones and Shevlin bout. It ought to be a good one. However, the best welterweight bout that ever was held in the East.

Jones Eager to Get Bout With Walker

Jones is in good shape and will [illegible] a good account of himself in [illegible]. It is Jones' ambition to meet champion, Mickey Walker [illegible] recognize him as his next opponent. Jones was really matched with Jack Britton on three occasions, but Dan Morgan, for some reason, did not want to take any chances with Jones. I hope that Walker or his manager will not feel the same.

It is Jones' intention to try to stop Shevlin if he can, as he realizes that Shevlin is well liked in Boston and Jones would like to have the fans in Boston with him and to have the fans with him he knows that he will have to defeat Shevlin. And he will do that very thing and he is going to do it in Shevlin's [illegible] in good shape.

Magnified 22,500 times the Gem Blade steel is seen to be in perfect alignment—with flawless shaving edge.

Electrical Heat Treatment gets you out of a Scrape

ARE your whiskers a trouble? Does it hurt your skin when you give yourself a close shave? If so, change to GEM Double Life Blades.

They are electrically heat-treated by a new method that seems to alter the very structure of the steel—at any rate it permits a new perfection of cutting edge, smooth even under powerful microscopes. This is our challenge:—

If Gem Blades don't lessen the time and trouble of shaving, and give you better shaves, without pulling your beard or scraping your skin, we will refund your money. Liberal as this offer sounds, we are really taking no chances—we know what Gem Blades can do.

BOSTON SPORTING AMERICAN

JOHNNY MITCHELL PLEASES FANS

Johnny Mitchell, now that he has won the regular shortstop berth on the Red Sox, is flashing the same kind of baseball that made him the sensation of the coast.

JOHNNY DUNDEE'S PUNISHING BLOWS MAY STOP CRIQUI

ITALIAN IS MARVEL OF THE RING

Johnny Dundee two-fisted Italian fighting man, will give Eugene Criqui, sensational French featherweight, who recently knocked out Johnny Kilbane, the hardest battle of his career.

Unlike Kilbane, Dundee has been boxing steadily. He has not handicapped himself by taking a layoff from active work in the ring.

Dundee, past thirty, is one of the marvels of sport. For fifteen years he has been battling, under the name of the Wop.

Boston and New England fans know Dundee better than they do any other star performer. This is due to the fact he has shown in local rings almost twenty times.

When Johnny Meehan brought Dundee here to battle Johnny Kilbane at the old Tri-A. A. ring Dundee Wop was a jumping jack. He delivered most of his blows while in the air which caused this writer at the time to nickname Dundee the "aerial fighter."

Guinan only scored one blow in that contest. This bout was stopped to save the Chelsea youth from unnecessary punishment. Guinan later went into a decline and was obliged to quit boxing. He died about a year ago.

Simler and O'Leary Flashed Against Dundee

Johnny O'Leary and Chick Simler each made one great fight against Dundee at the old Boston Arena. They stood up and fought like real champions. But when they were pitted against Dundee for the second time they were beaten hopelessly.

O'Leary and Simler received such severe thumpings from Dundee that their chances of ever amounting to a great deal in the ring were wrecked. Although Dundee never knocked his opponents out with a punch, he dealt out such cruel punishment that he destroyed their fighting ability.

The fighter who knocks out an opponent with a single blow does not do as much permanent damage as he one who gradually beats his opponent down. A boxer recovers in a few days from the effects of a one punch knockout, but it is often months before one gets over the effects of a heavy body attack of the kind dealt out by Dundee.

When Criqui knocked out Kilbane, with a right hand punch, the dethroned champion was on his feet shortly after the count of ten and was smiling when he congratulated his victor.

Dempsey First Attacks Rival to the Body.

Jack Dempsey, although the greatest puncher in the ring today, never uses a punch knowingly at first attacks the body and scientifically has blows to mix with the jaw when the latter is weak from the effects of the body punishment.

Dempsey has put two fighters behind the count of ten in a short time. The first was Jack Dillon, who was knocked out in the fourth round. The second was Bill Brennan, who was put to sleep in the seventh round.

Harlem Nelson was even more famous than Dillon when he went to stepping in the ring with Dempsey. He was a large person, and was in the best A. A. body and physical shape. But Dempsey came in for no trouble. He knocked Nelson out with one punch. He knocked Brennan out with two punches. Both Nelson and Brennan were considered iron men when they went down for the count. As Nelson had never been knocked out before, he would wear down his opponent and then finish him off. But Dempsey did not worry about his opponent's defense.

Few of the boxers who were clearly beaten down by Nelson attempted to anything afterward.

Billy Nixon of Cambridge was a promising ring prospect until he was stopped by Nelson at the Armory Club's old headquarters on Tremont street.

Dundee Will Try To Stop Criqui

Criqui will experience such a form of attack when he opposes Dundee. The latter has often "cornered" his opponents and been acclaimed to win on points. But when he has a Criqui he will give everything he has in the fighting line.

Dundee's one ambition has been to win a world's title. For a time he held the so-called light welterweight title. The champion was created in Tex Rickard's box but has never been taken seriously outside of New York.

Dundee has had several shots at Benny Leonard's lightweight title, but the champion has always had a weight advantage which has been too much for the Scotch Wop.

Dundee will not have any trouble making 126 pounds for Criqui. We have seen Johnny scale 129 pounds for Charley White when he was trying to build himself up to 133 pounds.

Dundee was as low as 128 pounds for some of his Boston bouts with Frankie Britt.

When Johnny went up to Lawrence and defeated Young Kluby, 115 pounds, he only scaled 123 pounds.

Dundee has never tried to make weight. Points of action in the ring has kept his poundage low.

Dundee recently lost his junior lightweight title to Jack Britton in a bout staged in New York. Britton's secret of ringcraft gave the decision after Dundee had scored a knockdown in the early part of the match.

Willie Jackson Only Boxer to Stop Johnny.

Willie Jackson is the only boxer who ever put Johnny Dundee out. Jackson outpointed Jack Reed in New York. The latter was so badly beaten that he was carried from the ring. Jackson was a clever boxer, but he was not a hard hitter. Dundee was never knocked out before as Willie Jackson when Dundee was in his prime. Dundee was in his prime. Dundee was in his prime. Dundee was in his prime.

IT'S ALWAYS THE WAY

By Jesse Wilkins

YOU decide to succumb to one of these hot Spring nights and take the gal rowin'. You call up and ask her sweetly if she wouldn't like to go for a row an' just as sweetly she purrs back to you that Eddie Jam—"Oh, you know Eddie, Paul? Oh yes you do. Eddie's just sat me to go out in his new $1,200 motor boat. It's just the fastest thing. I think it will be perfectly thrillin'. An' yuh know, Guess, he's named it after me. Maybe some other night, Paul, I'll go. I just love the water but of course rowin's rather dull, especially when you kin go out in a $1,200 motor boat what's named after yuh. Why don't yuh get —," but you have put the dollar bill you had planned to sacrifice to a row on the lake plus blisters on your hands, back into your purse and you are on you way to cuss the duplicity of all females and to drown your wretched feelings in a large beaker of ice cream soda.

You ask the cross-eyed gal at the boarding house to the big amusement park for the evening seein' you feel sorry for her, as homely as she is must of course be lonesome. She crawls into ninety dollars worth of glad rags and lightly trips out, but only as far as the curb as she says on account of havin' her op'ra slippers on, yer better call a cab.

Yuh do an' she thinks it will be lovely to go right out to the park in it, the park being only nine miles out. You do and all the way out she tells yuh how many birds are stuck on her and why she has never married, et cetera. Your taxi bill is $4.40 which is nothin' when this baby starts seein' things to ride on, seein' two for your one.

After a heart-breaking financial experience with $10 worth of rides and coasters she thinks a lobster newburg won't keep her awake and knows where you can get a little something at 75 cents and something to wash it down.

She inhales six, absorbs a chafing dish of lobster—you can't eat, as you're mentally ruined—and then says she's ready to taxi home but by that time you are down to a jitney and tell her that unless she has dough she walks, whereupon she says you are a "regular" and don't know how to treat a high-class lady.

Nothing Wrong

Bob met Rob for the first time for several months.

They shook hands heartily.

"Wherever have you been, Rob?" asked Bob. "You haven't been laid up, have you?"

"Yes, I have been laid up for a time."

"You're not looking very fit, Rob, I know. I hope it's nothing serious," said Bob, anxiously scanning his friend's face.

"Oh, nothing much, but this is the first time I have been out for six months."

"Really? What was wrong?"

"Nothing, really, only the jury wouldn't believe it."

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A GIRL was arrested the other day for writing letters to men and promising to marry them, and then giving them the air as soon as they sent her money to come on.

SHE'D propose to them first-class, accept them registered and deliver them special delivery.

SHE was engaged to so many men that she had to hire a clerk to write the love letters for her.

BUT she made her mistake when one guy got a letter which started "Dear Harry" and his name was Walter.

AND about the same time, another guy by the name of Charley received a letter from her which began "Dear Charlie."

AND when "George" got a love note which read "My Darling Fred," she received a piece of paper which was signed "Uncle Sam."

THIS governmental officials arrested her for defrauding the mails, a very appropriate charge.

SHE denies all guilt and places the blame on her bookkeeper.

IT'S possible for a woman to love more than one man, but not when she has incompetent help.

THIS girl was true to every man she loved, but the trouble was she loved everybody in the city directory.

SHE claims that she was only romantic. Jesse James was romantic, too, but he got the money just the same.

SHE says that if the city will give her time she will marry every one of the nine she promised. They'd have to give her lots of time, she'd need it.

IT would take her 500 years to average Bluebeard's marry and divorce fifteen or twenty men.

IF she started in today it would keep her busy the rest of her life.

SHE wouldn't even have time to go out for Monday golf, as she's taking Saturday afternoon off.

BUT she could divide her time by getting divorced during the day and married at night.

THIS girl was just having a jolly time, and now the government has to step in and spoil her little romance.

BUT this shouldn't discourage other girls. Husbands are wonderful things to take, provided you take them one at a time.

DO NOT GIVE CONSIDERATION OF THE PASSING YEARS

This remark came from a man of fifty. "I am getting to be an old man, and it is time to draw out of things. I should not work as hard as I do at present and I should conserve what strength I have."

Those remarks are true in a sense, but what is the hurry to drop out if health and strength are good?

As long as a man feels well and strong why give so much consideration to the passing of years?

It is not years which make a man old, it is the mental point of view; and right living should be as vigorously indulged as in youth.

Why draw a drab curtain until it is necessary to your life?

Thinking yourself old is going to age you unnecessarily. Better shake yourself lose from this bugaboo.

Throw back your shoulders and be a real man or a real woman.

As time goes on your experiences are richer and you live more easily and gain better results if you use your head.

Take an interest in everything around you.

Do the things which keep you young—enthusiasm and a purpose high enough to keep you constantly at it are essential. Good humor counts big, also.

Railroad Group Shows Strength in Mixed Market With but Small Changes

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Is America's crop of multi-millionaires vanishing?

A glance at the government's latest report on income tax payments would suggest "yes."

But, of course, nothing of the kind is happening—except that the multi-millionaires are fleeing outside the reach of the income tax gatherers.

Think of it! Quite one-half of the total income tax collected by the Federal government comes from three States, namely New York, 31¼ per cent.; Pennsylvania, 11¾ per cent.; Illinois, 5¼ per cent. This revelation may well be quite an influence on the attitude of the West and South toward the fixing of income tax rates. This lop-sided geographical "soaking down" is unfair for national political or social harmony.

* * *

For the first time since 1915 the number of persons paying income taxes show a decrease compared with 1920, the 1921 report just issued showing a reduction in payers of 397,768, the total being 6,682,176.

The amount of income on which the personal income tax was collected was $19,377,242,528. A decrease of no less than $4,158,416,655.

The total tax collected in 1921 was $719,287,166, a drop of $355,606,580.

The average net income of all those reporting fell to $2,938, from $3,269 in the previous year.

Heavy shrinkages in the numbers reporting and the amounts paid under the different classifications of incomes—which range from $1,000 to $1,000,000 and over a year—are the general rule.

But the most spectacular decrease of all is that shown in the number of multi-millionaire taxpayers. In 1916, 206 taxpayers confessed to have incomes of over one million dollars a year. By 1920 the number had fallen to 33 and now the total is only 21.

* * *

Look at how the income of our multi-millionaires on which taxes are paid have shrivelled up:

Year	Number having which paid	Income of
1916	206	$462,273,644
1917	141	306,835,914
1918	57	157,456,892
1919	65	152,620,745
1920	33	77,078,139
1921	21	50,000,000

Estimated.

This showing abundantly justifies the urgent recommendation made by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that the rate levied on the largest incomes should be drastically reduced. The opportunity for the very rich, but because such a change would bring into the Federal treasury many more millions of dollars from them. The attempt to take some 70 cents of every dollar received by multi-millionaires was bound to fail, seeing that these multi-millionaires could invest their money in, and derive their income from securities on which no income tax could be levied.

Secretary Mellon estimated that there are in this country $21,000,000,000 of securities wholly exempt from income tax. This is enough to meet the purses of all our Rockefeller and Fords and Vanderbilts and other multi-millionaires and millionaires.

Only two possible methods are suggested for meeting this unsatisfactory situation.

One is that already mentioned, the cutting of surtax rates to figures which will greatly lessen or wholly remove the temptation to dodge paying income tax by investing in tax exempt securities.

The other plan, also recommended by Secretary Mellon, is to pass legislation empowering the Federal Government to tax securities issued by the States.

* * *

This remedy, however, could not possibly be applied promptly, and it is doubtful if it will ever be sanctioned. First a constitutional amendment would have to be approved by a two-thirds majority of Congress. After that, it would have to be ratified by a three-fourths majority of the States. It is hardly likely that three out of every four of our States would voluntarily consent to deprive themselves of the privilege of raising money at the lowest possible rates, as can now be done by issuing tax exempt securities. There appears to be a trend towards greater insistence upon "State's rights," rather than any tendency to increase the powers and the privileges of the Federal government over the individual States.

* * *

Obviously, the sensible thing would be to fix next year the surtax at that calculated to bring into the Federal treasury a maximum amount of tax money from the very rich. This is being done, action looking towards the bringing about of a constitutional amendment could be set on foot if considered desirable and feasible.

FAVORS PURE OIL DIVIDEND SLASH

At annual meeting of Pure Oil, President Dawes announced intention to recommend to directors at next meeting reduction in dividend rate on $25 par common from 8 per cent. to 6 per cent. per annum rate. He added this would follow out ideas which have long prevailed with the management and in his opinion would result in ultimate benefit to the stockholders.

N. Y. CENTRAL IS AT ITS HIGH FOR YEAR

Railroad group showed strength today in a mixed New York market with a firm tone in which price changes were mostly small. New York Central sold at its previous high for the current year on activity portion of still more favorable dividend action. The last time Central was pushed up on these same expectations, the hopes of buyers were blasted.

American Locomotive and May Stores, though adding only fractions, also achieved new high for this year. Studebaker, Baldwin and California Petroleum were active and fractionally higher in the first hour, but all relinquished their gains.

American Express was up over a point. Fisher Body added 11 at 120. Inspiration gained a point and American Can better than a point in active trading.

U. S. Steel after gaining ¼ at 98 was thrown back for a fractional loss.

Under the influence of several constructive business developments, prices continued higher, on balance, today. Rails, steels and coppers were in good demand. Some of the oils were heavy. Royal Dutch dropping a point.

Rails were more active, gains of a point or more being made by Lackawanna, Atlantic Coast Line, Pitcairn preferred and St. Paul preferred. Merchandising and motor shares also gained ground. Twin City Rapid Transit jumped 6¼ points to a new high.

CARELESS BOND HOLDERS LOSE

Proofs pile up that investors should watch their holdings with care. A case in point is the announcement that $525,000 Atchison general 4s, due 1995, are called for redemption, although the conversion privilege of this issue expired June 3. Prior to this date bonds were selling (at exact) in line with the stock, around par. No sales have occurred since, but it is safe to say that with the conversion privilege gone the bonds are at least worth no more than the similar convertible 4s, 1955, unsecured debentures, which currently sell around 87.

Holders of Atchison convertibles who did not wish to hold the stock might have found ready market for bonds around par for equally well-secured bonds selling 18 points lower. The loss of this opportunity means the calculated annihilation of a $94,500 loss to holders of $525,000 bonds—a heavy penalty for heedlessness.

GENERAL ELECTRIC.

To P. H. S., Hull.—Don't worry about your stock's course in the market at this time, but continue to draw your dividends.

General Electric Company report for 1922 shows net profits available for dividends of $26,231,019. On the $175,624,746 common stock outstanding December 31, 1922, this is equal to 14.86 per cent. It compares with $21,652,812, equal to 12.8 per cent, on $172,194,000 stock in 1921 and $22,132,288, equal to 15.8 per cent. on $139,026,900 stock in 1920.

Sales of the year totaled $221,007,992 as compared with $273,758,887 in 1920, $279,983 in 1919, and $216,815,277 in 1918.

"RIGHTS" FRAUD.

To H. D., Cedar street.—The "rights" offer was undoubtedly a mere fraud. One way or another the public has been found in the sale of worthless stock by sending fake "subscription rights" through the mails. The promoter forms a corporation with a name similar to that of a well known and prosperous concern. He then circularizes the stockholders of this concern and so words his literature that many believe the corporation is a subsidiary of the responsible company, and hasten to subscribe.

The fraud is made easy by the fact that the swindler usually offers one share of worthless stock for every share of stock held by the victim in the second company. The stockholders' list is sometimes obtained through a dishonest employe having access to them and who cannot withstand temptation when substantial money is offered. Occasionally the lists of companies operating along similar lines are circularized.

Not long ago the stockholders of the Radio Corporation of America, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Electric were circularized in this manner and some of the holders of these stocks were deceived into sending checks for shares in what they thought was a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America.

MRS. PHILLIPS TELLS OF HOPE FOR NEW TRIAL

By CLARA PHILLIPS

(Copyright, 1923, by the Los Angeles Examiner and Universal Service.)

(All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or in part positively prohibited.)

We used to play ball on the inner court of the police station. We also used to pick flowers for our room which the men in prison had planted. Time went very fast in Tegucigalpa, despite our imprisonment. You can imagine our interest in all persons coming to the station. We watched every one. One day in the forty part of May signified the arrival of the new prisoner she thought was from Los Angeles. She called me to the window.

Knew It Was All Over

Sure enough, it was Morris Lavine of Universal Service and the Los Angeles Examiner. I had known him well during the trial, but decided that this was no time to see anyone from Los Angeles. I determined to play a game of hide and seek for a while.

You can imagine my surprise when I later learned that he had not only seen me, but had secured some very good pictures of me from a roof across the street. It was naturally his own very camera shy, because of my desire to avoid identification. We knew after his arrival that it would be a mere matter of time before the Los Angeles officers would come. Offers of Honduran romances became more frequent than ever.

Ten days later Mr. Biscailus and his party arrived. They were waiting for the extradition papers. We were showered with conditional offers of freedom.

We were expecting to return on April 20, when the sentiment of Tegucigalpa in our behalf grew very strong. Realizing the situation Mr. Biscailuz and the American minister were kept quite busy. They decided to move us out of Tegucigalpa.

On the night of May 23 about 11 o'clock, Jitts Mae and I were awakened by Chief of Police Retes and Deuty Sheriff Walter Hunter. They entered our room, snapped on the light to our great surprise and told us to be dressed and ready to leave at 3 a. m. That was but another surprise we experienced while there. We didn't sleep any more that night and were all ready at 3 a. m.

Watched Moon Sink

That trip next day was like traveling on a roller coaster, we were being driven so fast. We crossed high mountains and drove through pine forests. We were much afraid of the fast driving and we clung tight to each other. All the while my little sister would say to me:

"Don't be afraid dear. God will protect us."

She has been the sunshine of my soul since she joined me in Mexico City.

The first night of the trip we stopped at Jaral In a little old building. Besides three Tegucigalpa guards, we slept part of the way—there were six in our party—Mr. and Mrs. Biscailuz, my baby sister, Deputy Hunter, Morris Lavine and myself.

I stayed on the porch at Jral, watching the moon shining behind the mountains. I realized that every minute the time was getting shorter and shorter when I would be placed behind the bars again for something I did not do.

I decided rather to face the issue squarely. The next day we boarded the steamship Copan. Many problems kept me awake on the Copan. It was my fight for the future that concerned my struggle that the people learn the truth about me. And I believe that if I get a chance to tell the truth in court I shall be freed and vindicated.

THE END.

League's Court or Court's League

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Senator Borah has stirred considerable controversy by his assertion that the Permanent Court of International Justice is authorized by its constitution to act in an advisory capacity to the League of Nations.

Secretary Hughes, who advocates adherence to that court, has stated that the court may be called upon by the council or assembly of the league for advisory opinion.

Those who favor America's taking, by way of court or league, a chance of entanglement in European affairs resent Senator Borah's suggestion that national and international politics are likely to influence the decisions of a court thus bound up with a league closely interrelated.

One needs not be cynical on the score of human nature to believe that, in the present era of militant nationalism, even the judges of an international tribunal will be instinctively biased in their judgments by the interests of their own country. Pretty much as perfectly honest justices of our Supreme Court are naturally influenced in their judgments by lifelong association with corporations and corporate interests.

Whether the World Court is likely to be the creature of the league that created it, or the league is likely to be subservient to the advice of the court is an academic question. League's court or court's league is largely a matter of wording. It is all in a language that America does not care to learn.

Proverbially, a rose by any other name would smell as sweet. And a skunk cabbage, even under its high-sounding botanic title, would smell—well, not mighty like a rose.

What Offends Good People Is Criminal

What Is Criminal Should Be Suppressed

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

In New York there was exhibited a painting representing Christ, William Jennings Bryan, Volstead of the prohibition law and William H. Anderson of the prohibition organization. Christ was shown having performed the miracle of changing water into wine. Mr. Bryan in the picture is pouring the wine on the ground, Messrs. Volstead and Anderson approving.

The law suppresses the picture and punishes its exhibitor.

Various newspapers, including the New York Times, protest against "intolerance," while disapproving the picture. There is no "intolerance" in preventing reckless insult to the feelings of at least 90 per cent. of all the people. Regardless of religious belief, they revere the name of Christ. Every man may think, believe and preach what he chooses, but he should not insult the feelings of others, in paintings or otherwise.

Intolerance Soon Quits

It's a Coward, and Never Lasts

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

President Farrand of Cornell warns you that intolerance places civil liberty.

It does up to a certain point. There it stops. After great wars and other cataclysms men's minds are tired, and intolerance, seeing its chance, comes to the surface. It tells you what you may and may not believe, say and think. It tries to stuff old-fashioned superstitions down your throat, often labelling them patriotism. It does its best to push back the hands of the clock.

But after a while man's mental energy becomes intolerant of intolerance. And intolerance is kicked back into the shadows of the Middle Ages, where it belongs.

Honor to a Dog

Governor Baxter's Act Might Be Regarded as a Recognition of Advancing Civilization

Governor Baxter of Maine has drawn the whole country into a discussion of the virtues of a dog and the courtesy which was shown him by directing that the flag on the Capitol Building of Maine be put at half-staff while the dog he loved was being buried.

The action was extraordinary and bound to provoke public attention. No one can deny that much can be said for and against the Governor's action. If the dog, "Garry," had done something for humanity except being faithful to Governor Baxter, many of those who criticize the Governor's act would have withheld that criticism; but if it be regarded as an act in recognition of the dog, too long withheld, and not in recognition of the particular dog, we are inclined to agree with the Governor that it was a sentimental act, interesting, kindly and altogether worthy.

It might be regarded also as a recognition of advancing civilization. From the days when the Spaniards and Mexicans baited the bull and the English baited the bear, and Americans had cock fights and dog fights, to the present time when all of these things are prohibited has been a long period in which civilization marched forward very slowly and haltingly.

The dog at half-staff, not for Garry, but for the death of a dog may be considered as marking the advance in the ... of civilization from the point where we considered ... to be brutal to animals for our idle pleasures to the ... where we consider it proper to pay a virtuous animal ... had been faithful to us, the respect of a tribute.

Mr. Bryan challenges the theory of evolution. The majority of the convention of the denomination which he represents, refuses to agree with him. At any rate, in the scholastic world the Darwinian theory of evolution of man from animals has been accepted and is taught. Upon this theory, respect for the dog is but respect for ourselves in one of our incipient forms.

At any rate, Governor Baxter is good "copy," right or wrong.

RUINS OF POMPEII RE-OPEN

PARIS, June 8.—After having been closed since 1914, the Pompeii excavations near Naples are to be re-opened to tourists.

Frescoes and works of art, which have been in the Naples museum, have been replaced in the villas to which they originally belonged.

Pompeii was destroyed by the eruption of Vesuvius in A. D. 79.

Sunday Traffic Officers

Editor Boston American:

Why is it that, in this city of ours, there are practically no traffic officers on duty on Sundays? Surely there are enough machines passing through the city to warrant some protection at the corners.

Last Sunday I had occasion to go through the city and I was dumbfounded to see no traffic men on duty. In the outlying sections around Massachusetts avenue, Huntington avenue, etc., hundreds of cars pass by in an hour and yet I didn't see an officer on duty.

It may entail more expense to the city to add enough men to handle this work, but I think results would be justified and there would be fewer accidents on Sundays. Let us have a Sunday traffic squad, Commissioner Wilson.

THOSE who make their dress the principal part of themselves, will, in general, become of no more value than their dress.

Mother of Five

Editor Helping Hand:

I am the mother of five children, of whom the oldest is eight years old. My husband just went back to work after being laid up with an abscess in his throat, and he is not making much money. I am under the doctor's care myself, and the city is kind enough to send me to a mother's rest for two weeks. I have to take the two youngsters with me, and I am going to have an awful time trying to get them any clothes to wear. Perhaps some kind person has clothes that would fit the older one. He is four years old, and wears size 8 in shoes.

Maltese to Give

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a pretty Maltese kitten I would like to find a good home for.

MRS. L. R. C.

Mrs. A. B., who asked for one of the kittens offered last week, will be put in touch with you. Thank you.

Ready to Help

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of the old gentleman signing himself P. J. G., and also the address of the poor mother who longs for a sight of her little girl. I have no way of spanning her wish by taking her there by auto, but I would like to send her a little something. I know there must be some kind owner of a car who will see her plea and come to her aid.

M. G. E.

The addresses of P. J. G. and Mrs. J. E. have been sent you. Many thanks. I think someone will find a way of takin Mrs. J. E. to Monson to see her daughter.

Yet Chauffeur in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

Will someone give me employment or help to secure employment as a chauffeur. Unfortunately I am unable to do any other kind of work, as I am disabled. Although my disability originated during war service, I have been allowed only $9 a month compensation. I have attended an automobile school and have had a year's experience repairing different makes of cars. There are so many chauffeurs with years of experience and excellent references that I haven't had any encouragement in seeking a position in the ordinary way. I have dependent wife and child and am heavily in debt.

Clothing Offered

Editor Helping Hand:

I would be pleased to send the following things to some needy person: One woman's suit, a blue and white skirt, and a blue waist, size 40; six men's soft collars, size 15; an infant's white coat and Winnie hat, two Winter hats for children six, four pairs infant's socks, one lady's scarf.

J. Y.

Many thanks. The woman's clothing will be greatly appreciated by Mrs. E. M. T., whose address has been sent you. The other things will be held for replies.

4 Twins Need Carriage

Editor Helping Hand:

I have two sets of twins. The oldest are just toddling around, and the youngest are two months old. I am in need of a twin carriage. My husband makes scarcely enough to feed us, pay the rent, and buy clothing, so I have no way of buying one. The babies haven't been out since they were born, as I have nothing to put them in, and they need the fresh air.

MRS. P. W.

Clothing for Child

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a bag of miscellaneous clothing for a child about a year and a half old and a boy of three, including rompers, suits, dresses, etc. There are also three pinning blankets for a new-born baby, a man's bathrobe, shoes, several women's hats, stockings, etc. I should like to have all this go to one family if possible.

MRS. J. L. B.

Thank you. Your address has been sent to Mrs. L. E. C., who will be very grateful for all the things you mention.

For Mrs. M. G.

Editor Helping Hand:

Enclosed find one dollar, requesting you to forward it to Mrs. M. G., whose letter appeared in the American June 1.

MRS. T. M.

Editor Helping Hand:

Please forward Mrs. M. G. the two dollars, as I have no clothing to give. I wish she would get more, poor soul. Whoever started the Helping Hand should be lucky. It is a great idea, because no one has to feel embarrassed to take.

MRS. M. C. B.

Neither of the two readers above sent her address, so we were unable to thank them in a personal letter. So we take this way of expressing our thanks. The three dollars has been sent Mrs. M. G.

Sad Case of Need

Editor Helping Hand:

My daddy is in the hospital and will never come home. Mother has been sick a year with hardening of the arteries. Mother has made over all her clothes for me, so that now we are both destitute. I dust and wash dishes after school to earn a little money, but it has to all go for food. I have worn the same dress all Winter, and am wearing it now, and there are holes in my shoes. Anything in the line of clothes would be most welcome. I wear size 14 in dresses and 2½ in shoes, and mother wears size 44 in dresses and 2½ or 4 wide in shoes. Mother seems so discouraged I dread going home from school to meet her.

C. H.

Things for Children

Editor Helping Hand:

I am much interested in the Helping Hand. I am clearing house, and I can send some needy person something to help. I can send baby clothes to one who can mend, as they have served for other children. I also have some picture postcards, partly worn ribbon and lace which would do for children, patchwork pieces, and stockings that could be cut or patched.

MRS. A. F. M.

Thank you. These will be held for replies.

Thanks Readers

Editor Helping Hand:

May God bless you and the great-hearted readers who answered your appeals for those unable to help themselves? I have received several packages of magazines and a box of books, and several have told me they will send more later. Two married ladies came to see me, and they could see what I did not tell her. She sent her husband with a lot of wood all cut for the stove, and the other lady made up a package containing sliced bacon, eggs, canned soup, a large glass of preserved pears, a loaf of bread, butter, soap, and even matches. A package containing four shirts, collars and stockings also came. The husband says he will see that I have wood, as I am not able to break it up after I get it as I used to.

P. J. G.

We think you readers like to read of people who have been made happy as much as we do, so this is why we publish P. J. G.'s second letter of thanks. In fairness to all those who have helped, so generously, we think our thanks should be passed along to them.

THE HAWK OF ASIA AND THE WOLF PACK OF THE STEPPES

By Herbert Kaufman

EYES to the East, Poincare! Look beyond your nose, Mussolini! Forget party strife and Ruhr differences, Baldwin! Dismiss all thoughts of world courts, President Harding!

Pause and weigh the significance of the news from Tokio. The Japanese Diet permits Kato and Uchida to proceed with recognition of the Soviets.

The handwriting on the wall will soon be paper.

Moscow has found a backer, banker and industrial manager. Nippon's pressing necessities are at last to be satisfied with outlets for population—metal, timber and fuel concessions—construction contracts and a neighboring larder.

Woe for the West if the hawk of Asia ever goes hunting with the wolf pack of the steppes.

Common bitterness and mutual expediency urge the alliance.

Japan secretly writhes in humiliation at discriminatory laws against her subjects. Russia froths with rage at universal ostracism.

Japan needs land and food and factory stuffs. Russia requires development, markets and commercial sagacity.

Economics and opportunism approve the combination. What an invincible hand could be held provided Germany and China are drawn from the discard.

Consider that four-power alliance! Seven hundred million folk in possession of the vastest natural stores this earth holds, with raw materials and machinery, laboratories and laborers, strategists and scientists, and nationals of every country in the group born to obey a master's voice and serve the sword.

Something more important than prohibition to think about this afternoon.

Of Ships and Schools and Price Fixers

The government fleet won't go to the auction block. Shipping Board officials decide to continue Federal operation of sufficient vessels to insure proper American representation on all trade routes.

Congress had better provide a navy strong enough to protect their freedom of passage.

Great Britain is building supersubmarines on which Lake's first experiment could be carried as a lifeboat. John Bull's not taking chances.

Barbot flies from Long Island to West Point in two hours and forty minutes, covers 125 miles with two gallons of gasoline and a pint of oil, at a total expense of sixty-two cents.

The mail pilot who pointed the way consumed twelve times as much fuel. France has patented the air. We've hardly discovered it.

The United States Supreme Court nullifies State laws requiring exclusive teaching of English in public or private schools. Knowledge of language never yet made a bad citizen, but ignorance of the mold in which foreign thoughts are cast is apt to produce very inefficient ones.

Open price associations are also forbidden. Since manufacturing bodies have exchanged information on costs and output, the consumer has paid through the nose.

Twelve corporations described as "crushers" were defendants in the action. A lot of meaning can be crowded into one word!

Each According to His Lights

All denominations of religion begin to resent censure and censorship. Orthodoxy has fallen in every recent tilt with liberalism.

Waves of theological independence are beating upon rock-bound dogma. Dr. Fosdick, reprimanded by the Presbyterian assembly for illuminating faith by modern lights, tenders his resignation to the Brick Church congregation, which refuses unanimously to accept it. Protestantism itself is rooted in the ideal that men can only preach what they sincerely believe.

Research and disclosure must constantly reinterpret tenets. The most logical conception of divinity is the most reverent.

Customs men are a suspicious lot. Experience has taught them the last place one should expect to locate contraband is the first to search.

Narcotic agents, after finding dope in ineandescent lamps and dried fish, cap the climax by revealing cocaine and morphine in hollow crucifixes. A few hundred years back the vilest rascal would not have stooped to such impiety. Medieval criminals at least feared God.

New Noses for Old

The German Cabinet is submitting another "final" proposition. Sarah Bernhardt is gone, but her "farewell appearances" have a successor in reparation tenders. Nothing is certain these erratic days except allied rejection of any Berlin solution of the Ruhr problem. The entente will have the last word.

If you don't like your face, change it. Madame Yorska, one of Bernhardt's proteges, whose profile wasn't satisfactory for the screen, has just returned from Paris with a Hollywood nose. Where there's a will there's a way.

Especially in surgery. Scalpels do almost everything nowadays except put ideas into a numskull's head.

New York's Official Cancer

The brutality record is no longer held by Florida. Time remembers nothing more atrocious than the treatment of insane patients at the State Asylum in Willard, New York. Patients have been found with throats cut, necks broken and faces mashed to pulp.

Five deaths, and all kept secret.

Under the circumstances we can hardly patronize centuries addicted to the beating of lunatics with chains. Justice must confess herself a political pawn, as well as blind, if the persons responsible for these shuddering horrors don't reach the electric chair.

The fire at Ward's Island and the killings at Willard confirm the necessity of a thorough investigation of and reorganization of New York's charitable institutions.

Do your duty, Governor Smith! Probe, indict and strike hard!
